

NEW KINGSDALE LOCATION OF MCL RESTAURANT & BAKERY OPENING DEC. 10

The “Homemade. Every Day” fare of MCL Restaurant & Bakery will soon be available at a brand new location in the renovated Kingsdale Shopping Center in Upper Arlington.

On Thursday, Dec. 10, diners can pass through the doors of the new restaurant for the first time and enjoy the MCL mix of traditional favorites plus newer items like Mango Salsa Tilapia and Asian Infused Steelhead Trout.

The new facility, located between Macy’s and Jeffrey Thomas, completes MCL’s move from their previous Kingsdale location. Patrons can enter from the Tremont Road side of the center with a second entrance from the Northwest Boulevard side scheduled to open in summer 2010.

“MCL has been serving fresh, homemade meals for nearly 60 years,” said Casey McGaughey, Director of Business Development. “The people of Upper Arlington and Columbus have been loyal customers and were excited to offer them both our time tested recipes plus some popular contemporary tastes in this impressive new setting.”

The new Kingsdale location features a grand-but-inviting décor with 14-foot ceilings, walnut trim, and antique hanging light fixtures with amber stained-glass panels. Time strapped customers will also enjoy a dedicated carry-out counter and reserved carry-out parking just steps from the front door.

MCL, Inc. is a privately owned restaurant chain headquartered in Indianapolis. Established in 1950, the company operates 18 stores throughout Indiana, Illinois and Ohio. It specializes in serving a wide variety of high-quality homemade foods and baked goods. With close ties to the communities it serves, MCL purchases much of its produce from local growers.
